

SAMHAIN AWAKENING
October 13-14, 2012 in Austin
with Raven Edgewalker and Crow Walker

“We are here to awaken from our illusion of separateness.” — Thich Nhat Hanh

We are unique individual beings, and we are an essential part of a larger whole. To embrace this paradox is to awaken from the epidemic of disconnection that plagues our world. True conscious connection begins with the heart. Opening our hearts, we deepen and strengthen our connections with our humanity. We deepen and strengthen our connections in community with other humans, with the other beings around us, and at this Samhain-tide with the Ancestors and the Otherworld.

In this workshop we will explore our inner borderlands—our tender and joyful edges— as well as the borderlands between the worlds. We aim to step forward, to commit to active presence and conscious co-creation of the universe. To be active and present with, and conscious of, connection. [We intend] [to move out into the world after our work together into a more luminous life, beautifully aware of the web of relationships of which we are a part, of the power of our breath, our words, and our actions, with the gift of greater compassion and kindness for ourselves and all whom we encounter.]

To help us do this, we plan to explore the power of the word—the language we use and the stories we tell ourselves and each other. We will inspire and conspire with the magic of breath. We will gaze into the mirror and notice the ways in which we reflect each other. We will make art, dance, sing, and express the music our hearts long to make individually and together. We invite you to join us, and to answer the call of awakening in ritual among the trees and beneath the stars.

About the Teachers

RAVEN EDGEWALKER is a British Witch who currently lives in the magical landscape of Somerset, close to Glastonbury with her large and devoted hound. She has an on-going and passionate love affair with trees, ecology and the natural world, and the magic of building connections.

She has been working, studying and teaching in the Reclaiming tradition for over ten years and is an initiate in both the Reclaiming and Anderson Feri traditions. One of her passions is to travel and she is delighted to be able to combine this with another - her passion for teaching: She loves to travel and has taught courses, classes and Witchcamps internationally, as well as online classes from wherever she happens to have traveled to with her laptop, and plans and hopes to make many further trips as well as offering teaching closer to home.

When not gallivanting round the world teaching, Raven is a self-employed artist and crafts-person - she is often to be found in the workshop, covered in sawdust and twigs while making ogham staves, runes, wands and other such delights, in the studio with wire and stones and beads creating jewelry or hunched over her sewing machine. She is a sometime professional ogham reader, writer and poet and general jack-of-all-trades as the need takes her.

CROW WALKER is a warrior of the fierce heart. She works primarily through the power of story, the breath that rises from within the land, the song of the harp, and the practice of presence. Her work weaves the realms and magic of the Human and Faery races. She believes that through opening to ecstasy, compassion, and action, we can name and transform that which requires healing in ourselves and in the world.

Crow is a Faery Seer and a Reclaiming and Feri initiate. She teaches locally and internationally. When she's not teaching, she navigates the corridors of the corporate legal world by day and writes fiction professionally by night. She loves all forms of story, be the tales told on the small or big screen, from the lips of a storyteller, or on the page. In her very spare, spare time, she bakes, dances, and studies the harp. She feels at home in the green world. Crow travels regularly to the Oregon coast and to Ireland for work and play.
